
Sally Little

Global Ambassador

Born in South Africa, Sally pursued her dream of competing as a golf professional on the world stage. She enjoyed a 30-year career on the LPGA tour, winning 15 titles, including two majors.

Early in her professional career, Sally became aware of breast cancer when a fellow competitor was diagnosed. The players came together in support and raised funds for her treatment. It was at this time that the LPGA tour became an ally of Susan G. Komen for the Cure®.

Sally has remained a staunch supporter of Komen for the Cure throughout the years. She has participated in the American Airlines Celebrity Golf and Tennis event, an annual fundraiser for Komen, since it began. Sally also helped spearhead an annual local drive to raise funds for Komen through the Hamlet Country Club, her home base in south Florida. Having returned to South Africa, Sally and her Foundation will support breast cancer causes and work closely with Susan G. Komen for the Cure.

Sally is honored to have been appointed Global Ambassador. Her goal is not only to introduce Komen to South Africa, but also to continue to increase support for the Cure through all channels available to her worldwide.
